WINTER 2010

Farmland Sales 2009-10

Rodney-Whangarei-Dargaville Districts by Total Area (ha) Sold
(properties over $700,000 in value & over 50 hectares in size)

Who says farms aren't selling? Not me!

It's no secret that the Real Estate market has tightened up in the last year and the volume of sales has fallen. Farmers have had to deal with a drought, tightened lending criteria and a firming dollar all within a world-wide recession. It has been a tough time for the farmer, and also for those charged with marketing these rural properties, and it is in these conditions that an agent's abilities and skills get really tested.

The market has changed and still remains a moving target. However, whilst some in the industry have said there are no buyers out there, I recently received six offers on a 318 hectare dairy farm that ultimately sold for over $5 million. There are people wanting to invest in rural property - they are just being more prudent about their investment decisions and are looking for property which they believe stacks up in the new economic climate.

Analysis of sales statistics show that I sold 32% of all farms by land area and 29% by value in the Rodney, Kaipara and Whangarei districts in the 2009-10 financial year (which is serviced by over 80 other agents).

I believe that the results speak for themselves, and reinforce the need for a personalised marketing strategy which will elevate the property above all others on the market and maximise the results. There is no magic bullet to being successful in the rural real estate sector, but I credit my nationwide Top 10 ranking for Bayleys Country to an honest pragmatic approach to sales. In order for people to be in a position to make informed decisions, they need sound information to work from. My clients require foresight - not hindsight.

The above success and the belief that the overall outlook for agriculture in the region is positive, has also led Bayleys to recently increase its Country presence in the North to a team of 12 (with the national team of over 180 agents) providing properties more even exposure both regionally and nationally.

Emission Trading Scheme (ETS). Love it or hate it?

The ETS has certainly been a hot topic lately. And with the agricultural sector set to have full obligations by January 2015 it will be even more important to understand how to best to minimise your financial liability and how to best take advantage of it ... no matter which side of the fence you sit on.

I have listed a couple of useful websites below which may help answer some of your questions.
